LIVE STOCK NEWS.

Items of Interest to Stockmen, Gathered from Reliable Sources.

Albuquerque Journal: Seven cars of cattle and one of horses from Howard, Kansas, were unloaded here yesterday and will be sent west.

Reno (Nevada) Gazette: Mr. Vail, the cattle king of Nevada began business twenty years ago with a capital of $500. He paid the $500 for a Durham cow, and from that cow he has sold $40,000 worth of high-bred calves.

Colorado Live-Stock Record: Parties who are competent to speak estimate that a hundred thousand Texas cattle have come into and been sold in Colorado the present season. Two-thirds of these have been of the ox-kind.

Messrs. Conway, Derrick and Callahan will drive a herd of beef steers this fall from the vicinity of Rye to the A. & P. road, with a view to shipping them to market. The herd will be grazed on the Mogollons for two months, where there is an abundance of grass, before driving north.—Silver Belt.

Tucson Index: When the time comes that a cheap through freight for cattle is obtained to the great markets of the east, and responsible men in this territory are authorized by eastern purchasers to make advances here and ship to order, there will be method in the business and more money in Arizona.

Exchange: Tough beef is said to be attributable in a great degree to a scarcity of water on some of the western cattle ranges. In proof of this it is asserted that as the succulent summer grasses produce tender and juicy meat, so the dry, cured grasses of winter produce the opposite kind of meat, even though the animal's condition may be entirely healthful.

Exchange: Near Alma, an old brindle cow ate up an old leather wallet that contained $200 in greenbacks, and now the owner is convinced that it does not pay to put money into cattle. The man misinterpreted the intention of the cow, which was simply attempting to prove that there is more money in cattle than is to be seen at first sight.

Cheyenne Stock Grower: A few days since a telegram was received by Commissioner Atkins at Washington, from Captain Lee, the agent on the Cheyenne and Arapahoe Indian reservation, that only about 25,000 head of cattle now remains on the reservation, and gives it as his opinion that all will have been removed by the close of the month.

Miles City (Mont.) Live Stock Reporter: O. H. Wallup came in from the ranch on Otter creek Monday, where he had just turned out 200 head of horses and 80 colts purchased during the past two months at and near Spokane Falls. He reports that government agents are leveling the fences on the upper Musselshell in accordance with the Presidential order.

Hoof and Horn: We are glad to see Arizona stockmen turning their attention to better breeding of live stock. Several parties have lately imported bulls of superior breed, and in time they will be well remunerated for money thus expended. In this connection the Territorial Fair at Phoenix will serve as a great promoter of this enterprise, and we hope to see a grand display in this line next month.

Southwestern Stockman: We of the remote southwest must be assured of the rapid and reliable transportation of our beeves to market before the cattle business reaches its full measure of prosperity. A train load of cattle recently shipped from near Prescott to Chicago, were twelve days in reaching their destination, and the cost of marketing, including transportation, feed, etc., was $4,000.

J. H. Norton returned last Saturday from Colorado City, Texas, where he had been to purchase a bunch of cattle to add to his herd at Cottonwood and Cedar Springs. He bought several hundred head of mixed cattle, that will arrive at his ranch shortly. Mr. Norton thinks that the only item in favor of the Texas cattle is their price, average Arizona stock cattle being much superior in grade and condition.

Southwestern Stockman: In all of Arizona there was scarcely a more unpromising spot in which to seek for water than in the broad valley that stretches eastward from the Quijotas. But the sinking of an artesian well to the depth of several hundred feet, by the mining company there, developed an abundant supply to run its mines and mill, and further demonstrates the fact that a little capital invested in producing water will change some of the so-called deserts of Arizona into the finest cattle ranges in the world.

Kansas City Stock Record: Indian Commissioner Atkins has received a telegram from Capt. Lee, agent at the Cheyenne and Arapahoe Indian reservation, in which he states that up to September 7th, 60,000 cattle have been driven off the reservation. About 50,000 yet remain, but they are all moving with a single exception, where the owner has not been able to secure another ranch. The agent believes that this individual means to leave, but says that if his sincerity is doubted, his stock will be moved by the Government. Altogether Commissioner Atkins says he is satisfied with the condition of affairs on the reservation.

Kansas City Stock Record: In the United States District Court, now in session at Wichita, J. R. Blocker, M. C. Campbell, Bennett & West Bros., J. M. Ringo, M. S. Pugsley, S. C. Webber, Williams & Brown, N. Dowling, G. L. Vaughan Childers, H. W. Cresswell, M. Corrigan, J. W. Driscoll and Davis were indicted by the grand jury on the charge of driving Texas cattle infected with Texas fever into the Indian Territory and through the improved cattle herds of the northern part of the Territory. They will be tried at the next term of the United States District Court. These are the parties who were ordered to be allowed to pass through by Secretary Lamar, in violation of the Animal Industry law of the United States. This is a case of national importance, inasmuch as it will affect the grazing interests of Colorado, New Mexico, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Missouri and Illinois.

New York Tribune: The cow, Princess 2nd, is conspicuous just now on account of her extraordinary consumption of forty quarts of meal in one day, together with other food, and the alleged return from it of nearly seven pounds of butter. By and by the milk fever will claim her for its own, and her carcass will be dragged into a hole, a wicked waste of a useful animal for a man's vainglory and greed, and worms will consume her. And her epitaph should be: "Sent to join Mercedes, Jersey Belle and a host of others forced to death." But suppose a cow did make 46 lbs 12 1/2 ounces of butter a week, by consuming daily 40 quarts of meal, besides carrots, beets and clover hay; and suppose a cow can eat this enormous quantity of food in 24 hours. What of it? There have been monstrosities—Siamese twins, gluttons, giants, dwarfs, bearded women, dog-headed boys, and other freaks among the human race; and may there not be monstrosities among cattle? Whether or not this is the right name for the phenomenal dairy producers, one thing is certain—they all die of ill-usage in a short time.

They Wouldn't Have It.

W. Cal. Brown, the enterprising photographer, went out to Mantulito to attend the celebrated corn dance of the Navajos, and to take some photographic views, but superstition stood right square across the pathway of civilization, and Cal. was not allowed to take pictures to his great disgust. When the wise old chiefs saw the mysterious camera placed in position, they were at first afraid that it might go off, but Cal. managed to convince them that it was not loaded. They still objected, however, and insisted that any such contrivance would be a regular hoodoo to their festivities, and would undoubtedly bring bad luck in some form or other upon them. In vain Cal. reasoned and explained, and beseeched and implored. In vain he told them that photography was one of the most elegant and refining adjuncts of modern civilization. The stolid aborigines were utterly obtuse to his appeals and arguments, and he had to fold his camera and blankets and silently steal away, or words to that effect. This morning he left for Laguna, where he goes to witness the annual dances of those Indians and take photographic views of the same.—Albuquerque Journal.

Another sickening and loathsome custom of the Chinese has been brought to light in San Francisco, that of taking the remains of their dead, and boiling the flesh from their bones, the object being to send the bones back to the friends of the deceased in China. One of these Chinese factories has been discovered in the heart of the city, where the operation of boning the remains of Chinese was carried on. The stench is described as most sickening, and the internal surroundings of the building, filthy and horrible in the extreme. Thus it appears that there is no limit to the depraved customs of these Mongolians, who are crowding our shores, and infecting the very air with their crimes, vice and depraved customs. No wonder Californians stand aghast and cry for an impassable barrier against the invasion of such wickedness and putrid customs as are common to the Chinese.—Tombstone.

There is no reason in the world why the public demand for silver dollars should not be satisfied by the Treasury Department. Silver is essentially the people's money and if the people are given a fair opportunity they will soon absorb the entire issue of standard dollars, and as many more as can be coined. It may not please the gold bankers and bondholders of New York, who have entered into a corrupt conspiracy to secure the demonetization of silver, and the defilement of gold to have the people supplied with silver, but it must be borne continually in mind that the gold bankers and bondholders of New York do not govern this country.—Denver Daily News.

The attempts to introduce the American brook trout (Salmo fontinalis) into English waters have not been attended with success. During the last ten or twelve years thousands of fry have at various times been turned into different waters, but in no instance has the fish really been established. Occasionally a specimen is taken here and there, but as years go by there is no perceptible increase, while in some waters, which were liberally stocked, they have disappeared altogether.—Scientific American.

A mail sack received from Arizona yesterday was cut open with a knife, and an accompanying note stated that the carrier had been killed by Apaches.—San Francisco Exchange.
